SPEAR'S PATENT
Fruit Preserving Solution,
FOR THE PRESERVATION OF ALL KINDS OF FRUITS, VEGETABLES, JELLIES, WINES, CIDER, &c.
Without Sugar, and without Expensive Sealing or Air-tight Jars.
One Bottle will Preserve 128 Pounds of Fruit, or 48 Gallons of Wine or Cider.
CHEAP, HEALTHFUL AND EFFECTUAL.

This Solution, when properly used, effectually prevents fermentation or decay of Fruits, and, by the most simple and inexpensive process, every variety may be kept in a fresh and perfectly wholesome condition the year round. It is no new and uncertain experiment, but has been in practical use for the past eight years, yet has been, for the most part, kept from the public for the purpose of ascertaining the result of a series of experiments, all of which have proved the validity of all that is now confidently claimed for it.

Fruits preserved by this Solution are as good as the best "canned" fruits, while the use of the solution avoids the trouble of sealing, costly jars or cans, keeping from the air and light, frequent examinations, and the many other troubles and annoyances well known to every housewife.

Fresh native fruits the year round have become almost a household necessity, both on account of their healthfulness and as a luxury; and by the use of this solution this great luxury is within the reach of every family, rich or poor, in the land, as all kinds of fruit may be preserved during pleasure at less than one-half the expense of any other method.

The solution is perfectly free from objection on the score of health. Professor Bache, under date "U. S. Naval Laboratory, New York, September 14, 1864," says: "By direction of the Chief of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, I have examined your Preserving Solution, and meats and fruits preserved by it. I have a high opinion of its value, and believe it can be used in the preservation of those articles in a fresh state for the army and navy very advantageously. The Solution is perfectly free from objection on the score of healthfulness."

Other certificates from distinguished chemists, confirming the above, can be seen and had where the solution is sold. It is claimed:

1. That Spear's Solution preserves the flavor of all kinds of native fruits more perfectly and durably than can be done in any other way, and at much less trouble and expense;
2. That the use of the Solution renders it unnecessary to use air-tight or expensive jars or cans, and also avoids the inconvenience of hermetically sealing and keeping from the air, heat, light, etc;
3. That the use of the Solution admits of the keeping of the fruit in vessels of any size, even in kegs or barrels if desirable;
4. That the use of the Solution allows the shipment of the fruit by salt or fresh water, in the hottest weather, without danger of loss or injury;
5. That it is invaluable in the preserving of Tomato, Peach, Pear, Apple, Quince and other Sauces, Wines and Cider; also for all kinds of Spiced Fruits; that these alone recommend it to every family, and to use it once will guarantee their approval.

THE CHEAPEST AND BEST ARTICLE OUT.
A PERFECT TIME-PIECE FOR ONE DOLLAR.
Let every Housekeeper, Farmer, Mechanic, and Traveler buy our SOLAR WATCH,
or Perpetual Portable Sun-Dial.
Warranted to keep True Time for every Day of the Year.

This valuable instrument, which is warranted by us to give the true time of day throughout the year, is constructed on strictly scientific principles, being based on astronomical tables and calculations, and affording the truest measure of time which human ingenuity and skill can devise exceeding in accuracy and reliability the most perfect chronometers, whilst the low price at which we offer it to the public places it within the reach of all. Its portability makes it convenient for travelers, and to every farmer or householder it must prove invaluable to regulate their clocks and watches by the most infallible test recognized by science.

The mode of using the "Solar Watch" is the simplest that can be devised. After screwing the Style or Gnomon in its place in the moveable brass head and setting it directly over the straight line corresponding to the date, or that nearest to it on the cylinder, the instrument is placed upright in the sunshine in such a position as will throw the shadow of the style directly upon the line under it. After placing the plumb-line, by means of its brass attachment, at a right angle with and to the left of the Style, in order to set the cylinder perfectly level, the point where the extremity of the shadow falls, and its distance from any of the wavy or cross lines exhibiting the morning and corresponding afternoon hours, will indicate the true time of day.

The whole apparatus, consisting of a Cylinder and Diagram, moveable Brass Head, Style, Plumb line, and Brass attachment for the same, neatly put up in compact boxes, is sold by us at the incredibly low price of ONE DOLLAR. Manufactured and sold, wholesale and retail, by

THE LIST OF PRESIDENTS.

Great Washington was number one,
Then Soantor Adams next came on;
Jefferson made the number three,
Then Madison the fourth was he;
Monroe the fifth to him succeeds,
And sixth the Junior Adams leads;
Then seventh Andrew Jackson came,
And eighth we count Van Buren's name;
Then Harrison is made number nine,
And tenth John Tyler filled the line;
Polk was the eleventh as we know,
The twelfth was Taylor in the row.
Fillmore the thirteenth took his place,
And Pierce was fourteenth in the race;
Buchanan the fifteenth is seen,
Then Lincoln as sixteenth came in.
Johnson the seventeenth and last,
Still lives to close the illustrious past;
Now let us stop until we see
Who our next President will be.

Cheerful Sundays.

I can never tell why country clergymen do not shut up their churches in summer, and selecting some lovely grove, there talk, not "preach," to their people. Where could be the harm of letting "the Jews" and the "doctrines" alone till cold weather? and giving now and then a natural "burst" born of the woods, and hills, and streams? Every summer how I long, as I travel about, and these lovely calm sweet Sabbaths dawn upon us, to have an out-of-door church. Nor would it distress my sanctity to see the little children rambling round us—now listening to catch a word, now straying off to pluck a flower, now spell-bound by the sweet hymn, as the leaves whisper to each other, "Glory to God in the highest; peace on earth and good will to men." No admonishing hand should be laid by me on their little shoulders with the petrifying announcement, so impossible for young childhood to understand, "You must not run—it is Sunday." "You must not play—it is Sunday." "You must not laugh—it is Sunday."

How can a little child, of four or five years, keep from "laughing" because it is Sunday? How can he keep his little busy, restless hands folded, while birds are singing and leaves are dancing, and the brooks are sparkling in the sunlight, and earth is as fair as his own sweet happy face.

Oh, don't make him hate Sunday by this mistaken method of teaching him to keep it holy. Don't begin so early to make him a little hypocrite. You will soon find in his pocket strings and balls, and pins, and dead bugs, and every other surreptitious contrivance to relieve the horrid tedium of such a "Sunday." Do you never, my good sir or madam, get up later and go to bed earlier on that day than any other? Do you never sleep away its noonday hours because your mind gets weary with prolonged reading? Do you never, under the disguise of a ride, or a beautiful Sunday, think it best to go to a more distant church than your own chosen one to hear preaching? Do you, who exact of your restless child such motionless propriety in those hours, never stray off yourself to discuss warm political questions, or vexed business matters, with your next neighbor? Look closely into these points before settling your children's programme for the Sabbath hours.

Should not the Sabbath be "a delight?" and is this the way to make it so? Will there not come to children so managed a terrible rebound of license and lawlessness when they are out of leading strings? I think so; and it is because I think so, because I have so often seen it, that I beg these well-meaning but mistaken parents to consider a little if what I say may not be true. Any thing seems to me preferable to this compulsory Sabbatism of young childhood. Any thing better than hearing a little child so brought up say sorrowfully, "oh, dear, it is Sunday again." Oh, put down that Scott's Commentary you are already half asleep over, and take that disgusted, weary little child by the hand, and walk out into the fields with it, and show it God's wonderful workmanship in the varieties of trees, leaves and flowers. Do you call that "wicked?" I tell you it is much more wicked to make a sanctimonious hypocrite of a little creature, whose heart is so bursting with love and glee that you might as well try to stop the birds from singing till Monday as to repress its utterance because "it is Sunday."

Sunday? why, on Sunday throw open all the blinds instead of closing them, as if joy lay coffined and shrouded within, as truly it often does with these mistaken people. Sunday? why, on every mantel and table lay bright odorous flowers. Sunday? always have something very nice for the little palate to mark the day; prepared on Saturday if you choose, but have it. Sunday? why, give your children twenty kisses on that day over and above every other day in the week. Look more smiling on that day. Speak more cheerfully. Devote yourself to happifying your house and your children instead of groaning over "Doddridge's Rise and Progress," and calling yourself "a miserable sinner," as indeed you are! Try to mend matters, if you are sincere, by active "piety" such as this. Let your children look back from a serene old age upon happy—happy Sundays; instead of feeling even at that late day, when its light dawns upon them, an impulse to escape its rigidity and tedium. It is because I love the day and its sweet calm hours that I ask this. It is because I want those children to have this home anchor to keep them from straying into the paths of lawlessness and license in after years. It is because God is love that I dread your teaching your children to run away from him instead of into his open arms.

FANNY FERN.

A Laughing Deacon.

Beecher, in his new novel, thus delineates the character of a laughing Deacon. Some genuine model doubtless sits for the portrait:

"How they ever made a Deacon out of Jerry Marble I never could imagine! His was the kindest heart that ever bubbled and run over. He was tough, elastic, incessantly active, and a prodigious worker. He seemed not to tire, but after the longest day's toil he sprang up the moment he had done with work, as if he were a fine steel spring. A few hours sleep sufficed him, and he saw the morning stars the year round? His weazened face was leather color, but forever dimpling and changing to keep some sort of congruity between itself and his eyes that winked and blinked and split all over with merry good nature. He always seemed afflicted when obliged to keep sober. He had been known to laugh in meeting on several occasions, although he ran his face between his handkerchief and coughed, as if that was the matter, yet nobody believed it. Once, on a hot summer day, he saw Deacon Trowbridge—a sober and fat man of great sobriety—gradually ascending from the bodily state into that spiritual condition entitled sleep. He was blameless of the act. He had struggled against the temptation with the whole virtue of a deacon. He had stirred himself up and fixed his eyes on the minister with intense firmness, only to have them grow gradually narrower and milder. If he held his head up firmly, it would, with a sudden lapse, fall away over backward. If he leaned it a little forward; it would drop suddenly on his bosom. At each nod, recovering himself, he would nod again with his eyes wide open to impress, upon the boys that he did it on purpose at both times.

In what other painful events of life has a good man so little sympathy as when overcome with sleep in meeting time? Against this insidious seduction he arrays every conceivable resistance. He stands up a while; he pinches himself or pricks himself with pins. He looks up helplessly to the pulpit, as if succor might possibly come from thence. He crosses his legs uncomfortably, and attempts to recite catechism or the multiplication table. He seizes a languid fan, which treacherously leaves him in a calm. He tries to reason, to notice the phenomena. Oh, that one could carry his pew to bed with him! What tossing wakefulness! what fiery chase after somnolency! In his lawful bed a man cannot sleep, and in his pew he cannot keep awake! Happy man who does not sleep in church! Deacon Trowbridge was not that man. Deacon Marble was!

Deacon Marble witnessed the conflict we have sketched above, and when good Mr. Trowbridge gave his next lurch, recovering himself with a snort, and then drew out a red handkerchief and blew his nose with a loud imitation, as if to let the boys know that he had not been asleep, poor Deacon Marble was brought to a sore strait. But I have reason to think that he would have weathered the stress if it had not been for a sweet faced little boy in front of the gallery.

The lad had been innocently watching the same scene, and at its climax laughed out loud, with a frank and musical explosion, and then suddenly disappeared into his mother lap. That laugh was just too much, and Deacon Marble could no more help laughing than could Deacon Trowbridge help sleeping. Nor could he conceal it. Though he coughed, and put up his handkerchief and hemmed—it was a laugh, deacon!—and every boy in the house knew it, and liked you better for it—so inexperienced were they!

SLEEPING EQUALITY.—The Enterprise (Miss.) Star tells a good story of Rev. Mr. Talley, of the Methodist Church, who recently began in his pulpit ministrations the doctrine of the perfect equality of the negro and the white man. As a result, he was lionized by the "darkeys." An old gentleman of the white persuasion, residing in the neighborhood where this missionary of equality was laboring, saw proper to doubt Mr. Talley's sincerity, and told a favorite boy—an old time house and body servant, who had imbibed great confidence in Mr. Talley as a sincere confidence man—that he had as well keep his money, if he intended to give Mr. Talley any, until he could test his sincerity. A new idea struck Jack. Mr. Talley was to stay all night at Jack's master's. When he retired to bed, Jack accompanied the reverend gentleman to his room and held him in long conversation on the equality doctrine, until Mr. Talley was fully committed to it, and thoroughly sleepy, he took off his coat ready for bed; so did Jack. Boots came next; so did Jack's. Talley's pants off; Jack's ditto. In jumped Mr. Talley into bed, pulling the drapery of his couch around him.

"Look here, Jack, what are you up to?" quoth Mr. Talley.

"Nuffin 'tall, sir. I'se goin' to be 'down to' somefin, dat's all," replied Jack.

"What's that you are going to be 'down to'?" saith his reverence.

"Well, I'se going to bed wid you, dat's all dar is about it. I is jes as good as you is acording to de Lord's gospel by you, and I is tired of sleeping wid myself in the shuck pen. So I is gwine to sleep wid you in master's bed," said Jack.

Mr. Talley took a deliberate, indignant survey of Jack from head to foot, jumped out of bed, and irreverently said what the soldier always says of a mule, and skedaddled!

CREDIT—A wise provision by which sheriffs and constables get a living.

The Importance of Learning a Trade.

We do not intend, under this heading, to speak of the importance of becoming an apprentice to any mechanical business, but of the importance of learning—acquiring—a trade, of becoming a workman at the business chosen. It is not enough that a young man goes into a shop and works for a longer or a shorter period as a neophyte, but that he becomes master of the rudiments of his business. The country is filled with unfinished mechanics, every trade is overburdened with the miserable bungers on who, professing a knowledge of a business, bring it into disrepute by their incompetency. There is no bond in this country, by which a master can control the time of an apprentice for a period sufficient to remunerate the employer for the losses sustained in the early stages of the apprenticeship, or to give the apprentice a proper knowledge of his business. The apprentice is free to leave his master and employment, whenever, in his opinion, he has collected scraps enough of superficial knowledge to set up as an independent worker. He becomes dissatisfied with the character of his work or the amount of compensation, and finding other work and large pay, he quits his master's employment just when his services have begun to be valuable, thus committing a fraud upon his employer and doing a great injury to himself.

In no case is the term required to learn a trade too long. According to the value and difficulties of the business, it varies from three to seven years, and the most faithful and observant apprentice, after having filled his full term of apprenticeship, finds he has much to learn before he can honestly claim to be entirely and thoroughly competent. For at least a few months the apprentice is a constant source of anxiety and expense. From want experience, or from heedlessness, or dislike to the particular job given him, he breaks tools and ruins work enough in a week to cover all the profits of his work for months. The employer bears with this, patiently or impatiently as the case may be, in the hope that during the last part of the novitiate's apprenticeship he may reap some return from the profits of his work. Under such circumstances it must be very vexatious to have an apprentice leave just when he is becoming, in some measure, useful. Yet it is a common occurrence in this country. Apprentices seem too often to be devoid of conscience and wanting in the principles of common honesty.

Nor is such conduct of any real, permanent advantage to the apprentice. He becomes the Bohemian of the workshop, a waif driven hither and thither, having a smattering of knowledge and yet understanding no one thing thoroughly. His services are not sought; he is only a "Jack-at-a-pinch," to be used merely to fill a space otherwise empty. Scores of such half-backed mechanics can be picked up any day; they infest shops, torment employers, and disgrace the business they falsely profess to understand. They are industrial vagrants, if such a term is permissable, to be shunned and despised by every honorable workman. "Unstable as water, they cannot excel."

The ambition of the apprentice to be ranked among journeymen is a laudable one when properly directed, but it can only be realized by an honest and persistent sticking to his obvious and plain duties. If he ever expects to teach he must first be taught; if he desires to direct he should submit to direction. What this country needs in the industrial arts is finished workmen. They are scarce and always in demand. A competent and intelligent workmen is seldom wanting a good job. When business is slack the incompetents are first discharged, while the valuable workman is kept often at a serious pecuniary loss to his employer, simply because it is difficult to fill his place.

These considerations have nothing now in them, but because they are so trite and hackneyed they are not enough considered by apprentices. We earnestly invite their attention to the subject, believing it will be to their present and prospective advantage to deal honestly in this as well as other respects.—Scientific American.

☞Women are more like flowers than we think. In their dress and adornment they express their natures, as the flowers do in their petals and colors. Some women are like the modest daisies and violets; they never look or feel better than when dressed in a morning wrapper. Others are not themselves unless they can flame out in gorgeous dress, like the tulip or blue rose. Who has not seen women just like white lillies? We know several double marigolds and poppies. There are women fit only for velvets like the dahlias, others are graceful and airy like azleas. Now and then you see hollyhocks and sun flowers. When women are free to dress as they like, uncontrolled by others, and not limited by their circumstances they do not fail to express their true character, and dress becomes a form of expression very generally and usefully.

☞A little man in the West of Maryland rushed to the Potomac river last summer, swearing that he would drown himself. When he had waded in to the depth of his waist, his wife, who had followed him, seized him by the hair of the head, and then, as a spectator describes it, "she led him back until he had reached a place where the water was about two feet deep, where she pulled him over backwards, sousing his head under, and then pulling his head up again.—'Drown yourself, (down he went,) leaving me to take care of the children, (another plunge,) get drunk, (another souse,) and start for the river. (Another dip.) Better use the water instead of the rum. (Another dip and shake of the head.) I'll learn you to leave me a widow!' After sousing him to her heart's content, she led him out a better if not a wiser man, and escorting him to the house, shut the door."

☞A jealous man, who was on a visit to London, was induced to call on a clairvoyant to ascertain what his wife was doing at her residence, some ninety miles away.

'She is sitting in her parlor,' said the lady, 'and she looks out of the window as if in expectation.'

'Strange,' said the gentleman, 'whom can she expect?'

'Some one enters the door, she sees him and caresses him fondly.'

'Horrible!' interrupted the gentleman, thinking of the divorce court.

'Now he lays his head on her lap, and looks up tenderly into her eyes.'

'Dreadful! she shall suffer for this.'

'Now he wags his bushy tail.'

And as this explained the story, old Jealousy decamped, and resolved not to be inquisitive again in regard to his wife.

☞"Dr. Kalahum, d'ye think my darter will get well?"

"Well, if she don't git no wuss, and does git sum better, she may possibly git over it. You see, she's afflicted with a concatenation of the metacarpial flummix, which extends from the neboscis to the inferior lobe of the anterior revolution of the occuput. No-thin kin help her but calomel and persimmons taken jintly both together—a spoonful, more or less, according to the symptoms, every other day oft and on. Them will eventooaly put her out of pain into a sweat, and restore a healthy action of the minor pedals, and reduce the encyclopedia of the neuralgic diaphragm, immediately under the left side of the right eye."

The youth, smitten with the charms of the maiden, only ventured a shy look, and now and then touched Patty's feet under the table. The girl, determined to make the youth express what he so warmly felt, bore with these advances a little while in silence, when she cried out, "Look here! if you love me, say so, but don't dirty my stockings."

☞A religious paper in Boston is responsible for the following: "An old lady who was about to breathe her last, received a call from an acquaintance ignorant of her mortal illness.—The answer sent down from the chamber of the departing sufferer was memorably unique: 'Madam —— sends her compliments to Madam ——, but begs to be excused, as she is engaged in dying.'"

☞Education is a companion that no misfortune can depress; no clime destroy, no enemy alienate, no despotism enslave. At home a friend, abroad an introduction, in solitude a solace, in society an ornament. It chastens vice, it guides virtue, it gives grace and government to genius. Without it what is man? A splendid slave, vacillating between the dignity of an intelligence derived from God, and the degradation of brutal passions.

☞"Doctor, what should you advise me to take for my stomach?" asked a patient.

"You ought to take an aromatic," replied the disciple of Esculapius.

"A narrow mattock!" exclaimed the affrighted patient. "I must continue to suffer, then; for I never yet saw a mattock narrow enough to swallow."

☞An Irishman, having arrived in this country, struck across the fields in search of employment. While ascending a hill he suddenly came to a standstill at the sight of a turtle, slowly wending its way. Pat, never having seen the animal before, exclaimed:

☞A young lady was alighting from a stage coach, when a ribbon fell from her bonnet into the bottom of the carriage.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

☞It is said by those who ought to know that the Government is now at an expense of at least two hundred millions of dollars a year in its "War Department."

☞The returns from the districts in the State of Maine are slow coming in. The Republican majority is being cut down considerably. The Republican press say their party had to carry a heavy load, a liquor law, which was unpopular with the people.

☞The Constitution of the United States is a written Instrument; a recorded fundamental Law; it is the Bond, and the only Bond, of the Union of these States; it is all that gives us a National character.—Daniel Webster.

☞It is an old axiom that "revolutions never go backward;" but it is none the less true that when a revolutionary movement is pushed beyond its legitimate ends, the party concerned in it is demolished by a popular reaction.

☞Ex-Chief Justice Woodward has been nominated by the Democrats for Congress in the Luzerne (12th) district to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Dennison, dec'd. The district being largely Democratic, the Judge will of course be elected.

STATE ELECTIONS.—The following are the State elections yet to be held this year:

Oct. 8.—Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa.
Nov. 5.—New York, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Maryland, Massachusetts.
Nov. 6.—New Jersey, Kansas.

NEW PARTY.—The Labor Reform Party met in Convention in Pittsburg on Wednesday last, and placed in nomination officers for the different State and county offices. In their platform they declare that they will support only those who will advocate the principles of Labor Reform, and use their influence in support of such laws as will secure to the laboring classes their just rights.

RECONSTRUCTION.—The law is said to be "flimsy." "General Grant can do nothing." "His powers under the Reconstruction Act are of no avail"—and Radicalism "hardly knows which to blame, Congress for passing a law so flimsy, or Gen. Grant for accepting the President's quibbles as a just interpretation" of it. The law meant to do certain things. But the law does not say so; and the President and Grant are savagely assailed because they will not do what the law meant, instead of merely doing what it says.—Republic.

☞Gen. Grant, it is said, has expressed his views with regard to the Presidency. He said he would not be President of the United States, if the opportunity were offered; that he was no politician (which is well known) and, it is added too, that he even hated politics. We like to hear a man talk thus, and we are only the more convinced that he would be the right man at this time for the position. As for his losing friends, we think that he will only lose the politicians and office-seekers, but the honest, well-meaning masses of the people will stick to him the closer—so long as he remains steadfast to his hates and keeps out of politics.

THE REACTION.—A year ago we predicted that the extreme measures proposed by the Radicals would bring about a reaction in public opinion against the Republican party. That reaction has commenced and shows itself plainly in the heavy losses of the Republicans at the late elections in California and Maine. If obnoxious Democrats or "Copperheads" should get in power it will be because the Republican politicians everywhere advocate and try to enforce measures more obnoxious to the masses than are Democrats or "Copperheads." The great mistake Republican leaders make is they fancy themselves and those they can lead strong enough to do without the help of conservative or "Union party" voters, who during the war acted in good faith with Republicans for the purpose of saving the Union.

☞Politicians and leaders of parties should not forget that a large majority of the voters go to the elections and vote, as they suppose, to advance their own and the best interests of the whole country. With them mere party success is not as important as their own success in whatever calling they may be engaged, and whenever they discover or think that the "policy" of the party they vote with is injurious to their interests and the peace and prosperity of the country, they desert it, and either stay at home or go to elections and vote for a change. The late elections indicate that a large number of voters have already become dissatisfied with the reforms and radical notions of the Republican party; but whether a change will be for the better, time will tell. Our own opinion is that it will take all the best efforts of the good and wise men of all parties to save our country from more serious troubles.

Our Currency.

That we are to have for several years at least an irredeemable paper currency, appears to be tacitly conceded; the hopes of a speedy return to a specie basis, which many entertained after the close of the war, have gradually given way, and Secretary McCulloch himself, who was doubtless in earnest, in his early efforts towards a return to specie payments, appears to be disposed to wait the course of events. Specie payment and a currency which will at all times be of equal value with gold, cannot be created by legislation alone; our middle aged business men can bear testimony to the repeated failures under State legislation to compel specie payments by our Banks, and although the cases may not be exactly parallel, yet experience teaches that only when full and entire confidence exists in the ability of the Banks and the Government to redeem their and its demand obligations in coin, will a permanent resumption be had—that is, whenever such a condition of things exists that the notes of the Banks and the Government are considered by the people as preferable to gold, then and not until then can we look for specie payment.

In the meantime, what do we gain, and how much are we likely to be aided toward a resumption by our National Banking System. That the Banks are receiving from the Government much more in interest upon the bonds they have deposited as collateral for the notes issued to them, than all the taxes they pay, has been shown by figures heretofore published, consequently the National Treasury suffers to that extent. The notes of the National Banks are all in circulation and rarely presented for redemption, and as they are not taken by the people upon the security of the Banks, but upon that of the Government, it is difficult to perceive why the Government might not as well have the benefit of this loan of the people's money without interest as the Banks.

In other words, who can see why three hundred millions of greenbacks might not as well be held by the community as that amount of Bank notes redeemable in greenbacks, and thus relieve the Government of so much interest.

The next question, how much we are likely to be aided in our efforts toward specie payment by the Banks, is almost answered by asking the question. At all events it requires but little reflection to determine that the National Banks will find it to their interest to delay the question of redemption in coin as long as possible, and we all know the influence which can, and always has been exerted upon legislation by Banks.

We are not hostile to a Banking system. On the contrary we consider Banks as essential to the welfare of a business community, and our remarks are only intended to draw attention to the present system, and its relation to our National interests.

☞A Border State Republican Convention assembled at Baltimore on the 12th inst. There was no distinction of race or color. Horace Maynard was elected President. Letters from white and colored distinguished politicians were read, among which was one from Senator Sumner, in which he said that "Congress will leave undone what it ought to do if it fails to provide promptly for the establishment of equal rights, whether political or civil everywhere throughout the Union." Resolutions were adopted urging Congress to protect the equal voting rights of all loyal American citizens, without regard to complexion, and guarantee a republican form of government to all States; and suggesting the presentation to States for their adoption a Constitutional amendment, providing that no State shall disfranchise any citizen because of race or color.

☞The Democratic candidate for Governor in California has a majority of over six thousand over the vote of both Radical candidates combined. The Radicals were too strong in that State for a few years to remain honest, and overboard they had to go, the fate of the Democratic party in the brighter days. The politicians of both parties are no more honest than they should be. The people can if they will, make them more honest. Many of the Legislators of last winter in this State wish they had a few months of their lives to live over again. But they "did it," and if they are not returned to the next Legislature they will be able to guess the reason why. The taxes are already too high for the honest voters to overlook the extravagance of legislators.

☞The State Fair held at Norristown, Montgomery county, opened on the 11th inst., and it is said the display of stock, implements, fruit, etc., exceeded anything ever witnessed. Over forty trotting horses were entered. Another State Fair will be held in Pittsburg, commencing the 24th of this month.

On the 1st of August, 1865—when our volunteers had not yet been paid off and our army reduced to a peace footing—our ascertained national debt exceeded the fund in the Treasury by the gigantic amount of $2,757,689,571
It has been reduced to 2,492,783,365

Actually paid off $264,906,206
or very nearly one-tenth of the total.

OPENING OF THE AMAZON.—Saturday, the 7th of September, was the Brazilian Fourth of July, the anniversary of the independence of Brazil; and on that day, this year, according to a proclamation issued last December, the Amazon, the great river, or King of Waters, as the Indian name Para signifies, was thrown open from the Atlantic to the boundaries of Peru. Henceforth all nations may freely use of this great highway of commerce, which gives steamboat navigation from the Atlantic coast to within ninety leagues of Lima. Peru has also by treaty with Brazil, and by a former treaty with the United States, granted the free navigation of her Amazonian waters. Navigation thus extends across the continent. The Morona, a sea-going Peruvian steamer, built by the Penns of London, ascended, in October, 1864, from the mouth of the river to within ninety leagues of the city of Lima.

The valley of the Amazon is a vast and fertile wilderness, with here and there a town on the borders of the great river. The most important and productive parts of Venezuela, New Grenada, Ecuador, Peru, and Bolivia, as well as of Brazil, are drained by its waters. Its valley has an area equal to the whole United States, without the Pacific States, and yet the population of the Amazon valley is at present no greater than that of the single city of Brooklyn.

But now measures in regard to grants of lands and emigrants have just been proposed in the Brazilian Parliament, which, if carried out, cannot fail to induce emigration to this equatorial valley—where the mercury never rises as high as in Philadelphia, and where yet the rich and useful staples, coffee, sugar, cotton, rice, india rubber, etc., etc., repay the industrious laborer a thousand fold.

BETTING.—The Lancaster correspondent of the Coatesville Union tells how an election bet resulted in a law suit: A case was yesterday decided in our Court of Common Pleas, which may have a tendency to check the too common vice of gambling on elections. During the Lincoln and McClellan canvass of 1864, a Democrat of Reading wagered a hundred dollars with a Republican of this county, that McClellan would beat Lincoln on the "home vote" in Pennsylvania. The home vote was never decided or at least the Democrats who ventured their money alleged it could not be decided, from the fact that there were many soldiers in the State at that time, and their votes could not be separated from those of the citizens. This was a sharp Democratic dodge, and "saved the bacon" of more than one of them who ventured their stamps upon "Little Mack." However, the Lancaster Republican, who was allowed the use of the money pending the campaign, refused to be governed by the decisions of the sharpers, and held on to the stakes—$200. The Reading man then gave information to the Directors of the Poor of Lancaster county of the existence of the bet, and demanded of them to bring suit, under the act of Assembly for the recovery of such penalties. The suit was entered but was continued from term to term, and only decided at this court. The law under which the suit was brought was enacted thirty years ago, and from the fact that it never was enforced in this county, it became to be regarded as a dead letter. The jury found for the plaintiffs, and the $200 with accruing interest will go for the benefit of the poor.—This is a good beginning towards the suppression of a low vice, and if the penalty was inflicted in all similar cases it would cease entirely. Betting men will please make a note.

THE FATE OF CRINOLINE.—Crinoline is growing "small by degrees and beautifully less." Some ladies dispense with it altogether indoors, but this is just as bad as the other extreme. In Paris it is still almost universally worn, but is quite unobtrusive and almost imperceptible. There are none of the violent fluctuations from nothing to the old-fashioned rotundity, which are still to be seen among us. Very small hoops and underskirts, gored, are a necessity with gored dresses, and ladies who would avoid the imputation of ignorance and bad taste must remember this. A new skirt, all wool, made without pleats, so as to fit perfectly over a small hoop, is among the fall novelties. It is called the "Boulevard," and will naturally supersede the Balmoral, as it is light, durable, handsome, and specially adapted to the requirements of the present style of dress. It is made in different styles; some plain, some embroidered, some trimmed with several rows of alpacca braid, and others with a box pleating, bound on either edge with braid.

☞The very serious and critical aspect of our national affairs is beginning to fill the public mind with sad forebodings. It is doubtful whether in the darkest days of the late civil war the public pulse ever indicated a worse condition of things than it now does. Men ask each other when they meet how the political problem is to be solved, and confess their inability to supply a satisfactory answer. In the meantime commerce languishes, the credit of the Government—as expressed in the relations of gold to currency—wanes, and the Southern section of the country, which formerly, through its staple products, added so largely to the wealth of the whole nation, is no longer a source of prosperity, but of expense and trouble; and all because, after having made every sacrifice to put down the Rebellion, we were not willing, after it was put down, to sacrifice party prejudices in order to sanctify and make lasting the work which our armies had accomplished.—New York Herald.

Another batch of correspondence concerning the Alabama claims has been published. Lord Stanley, in his dispatch dated May 24th, which was handed to Mr. Seward by Sir Frederick Bruce, while the two were fishing at Auburn during the summer, consents to arbitration, provided two distinct tribunals be established; one to decide the responsibility incurred by the British Government in depredations committed by the rebel privateers, and the other to adjudicate general claims on both sides. To this Mr. Seward, in a dispatch dated August 12th, objects as unnecessary, claiming that if there should be two tribunals they should be clothed with the same powers.

WHIPPING A RAILROAD.—The Saint Paul Pioneer tells the following story of an old farmer in Ramsey county, Minnesota:—

It seems that on Monday a conductor on the St. Paul and Chicago Railway took a gang of about forty men to Pig's Eye to commence work on the road. Ground was to be broken on the farm of Mr. O'Connor, but, lo and behold! that individual appeared on the ground with a blunderbuss, and threatened that the first man who stuck a spade in the ground would be shot dead. Here was a dilemma. The laborers thought their pay was rather too small to risk their constitutions for, and no one volunteered to be the "first man." So work did not progress very briskly that morning.

The contractor failing to pacify O'Connor, sent to town for the attorney of the Company. That personage soon appeared on the ground, and after surveying the scene, concluded he could "fix it up" quite easily, and started for O'Connor, who was still mounting guard over the sacred soil of his farm. The latter individual raised the terrible blunderbuss, and commanded the attorney to halt or he'd blow him thro'. "H-h-h hold on—don't shoot," cried the attorney, as he fell back to safer position, and concluded that treaty-making was not his forte.

A constable was next sent to arrest the belligerent O'Connor, but he, too, beat a hasty retreat before that terrible gun. At last accounts the building of the road had not been commenced, O'Connor still standing guard over his premises, having been on watch forty-eight hours.

A CLASSIC RAILWAY.—The Highgate Finchley and Edgeware Railway, a new branch line just opened in England, extending from the Ling's Cross terminus of the Great Northern line to the neighborhood of Canons, runs through a region of country which a number of English authors have rendered classic ground. Crouch End, for instance, is haunted by the memories of Rogers and Moore; Muswell Hill by the dogmatic shadow of Dr. Johnson, and Highgate by the gentle yet earnest spirits of old Andrew Marvell, dreamy Samuel Taylor Coleridge, Leigh Hunt, and immortal John Keates with his "large utterance of the early Gods." Finchley is the locality of Dickens' "Bleak House;" the story is said to have been written at a farm house there, while Canons was the seat of the Duke of Chandos, the description of whose sybartical palace will be recalled by the readers of Pope.

☞An officer of General Grant's staff relates a conversation which he had with the General a few days ago, wherein the General remarked concerning the talk of making him President, that "he would not be President of the United States if the opportunity were offered; that he was no politician; that he hated politics; that, so far as reputation and honor were concerned, he thought he ought to be satisfied with what of these he already enjoyed; that holding the office of President would mar his present comfort and drag him into the storms and excitements of politics; that as the General of the army he had all the work he could do, and time enough to enjoy the comforts of his family and home, and that he, as a soldier, had gained friends enough in the country without now seeking a place where he should gain no more, but probably lose those whom he had gained."—N. Y. Post.

TREATMENT OF VENOMOUS BITES.—Dr. James T. Newman reports in a Chicago medical paper three cases of rattlesnake bite, in one of which he administered, during six hours, the enormous quantity of thirty grains of morphia, one gallon of brandy and four ounces of aqua ammoniæ. The patient had been bitten three hours when the treatment was commenced, and was in great agony, enormously swollen, foaming at the mouth and convulsed. The first dose was five grains of morphia, followed in ten minutes by half a pint of brandy! Stramonium leaves were also applied as a fomentation. The remedies were continued at short intervals, with the addition of aqua ammoniæ, until the patient became quiet and fell into a gentle sleep which lasted for some hours. He fully recovered.

Trouble in Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 13.—At Jackson, Madison county, yesterday morning, a prominent citizen named Hart was shot dead by militia, after the former had given up his arms. The militia went round compelling citizens to give up their arms. The murder is said to have been a most cold-blooded and atrocious one. The citizens collected together and commenced to arm for the purpose of driving the militia from the place. United States troops were being pushed forward to the scene of disturbance, and a general riot was expected. The militia had been committing depredations on citizens in various localities.

Richmond, Sept. 10.—A telegram from Farmville to-night reports a fight this afternoon between some soldiers of the Twenty-first U. S. troops and town negroes. The soldiers had beaten a colored man for refusing to sell liquor last night, and this morning were about to beat another, when the negroes rallied, and a fight ensued. The citizens closed their stores, and a company of soldiers were sent in from camp and restored order. One soldier was stabbed in the melee, and about a dozen soldiers and blacks badly beaten.

WILKESBARRE, Sept. 10.—Ex-Chief Justice Woodward was nominated unanimously in convention to-day to fill the unexpired term of Wm. Dennison, deceased. This gives him the unanimous vote of the conferees for the Twelfth (Pennsylvania) Congressional district. The Judge is now in Europe, and it is understood that he will not return until after the election. The district is strongly Democratic, and the nomination probably insures Woodward's election in October.

The Montana Post, of August 24th, says that Dr. James Dunlevy, while exploring the headwaters of the Yellowstone, discovered a salt water lake, covering about forty acres. The water is always at the boiling temperature; meat thrown in was boiled in less than forty minutes. The water contains a large percentage of tincal, the crude material from which borax is made.

Pen and Scissors.

Charles Burrell has entered suit against the city of Boston for $1,000,000 principal and interest for furnishing soldiers and sailors toward the quota of Boston in the war.

The preaching of two Capuchins at at Chalatenango, in Salvador, a place formerly noted for a laxity of morals, induced six hundred couple to get married, and nine thousand persons partook of the Lord's Supper.

According to the latest official report of the Adjutant General, there were eight hundred and fifty-seven (857) Pennsylvania regiment and line officers killed during the late war, not counting those who died of disease.

An analysis of six specimens of liquor purchased of the Maine State Liquor agent showed that only one was pure or suitable for medical use, and that was rum made from molasses.

There is a Methodist preacher in England only one inch taller than Tom Thumb. As a curiosity he draws crowds—audiences of four thousand—and then he talks to them.

Gentlemen versed in the chemistry of nature predict that the autumnal foliage, owing to the heavy fall of rain, will be unusually brilliant. The maples already show a tendency to a bright scarlet.

A private letter received in California, Missouri, last week, from a former resident of that place, now living in Northern Texas, says the negroes in that part of the State have quit work and gone into camp. All were armed and assert they intend to take the law into their own hands.

Many large deposits of very valuable coal have been discovered in Colorado and New Mexico, and one vein fifty miles north of Fort Union, is ten feet thick and more than fifty square miles in extent. The coal is considered equal to the best Pittsburg coal. Iron ore has also been discovered in the same locality.

The following precise and plain prescription may be of interest to some of our lady readers who go out to "make calls": "A plain card denotes a passing call; the lower right hand corner turned, a visit; left hand lower corner, condolence; right hand upper corner, business; left hand upper corner, adieu."

Somebody says that the best way to get rid of weeds is to always put your cigar case and its contents at the service of your friends. Jones says that the most effective means he ever tried was by squeezing the hand of a plump young bereaved in black. The next day she was in half mourning, and a second kindly pressure resulted in a pink gown with a white bonnet. Farmers, please take notice.

The durability of painted wood has been shown by a report recently made to the Providence Railroad Company. Recently the superintendent of that company took up several white pine mile posts, on the line of the road, which were found to be as sound and as perfect as when placed in the ground more than thirty years ago. They were covered with paint, which had probably preserved them.

England is now in earnest in her preparations for the Abyssinian war. Sixteen steamers have been chartered to transport troops. If aid is not to be too late, the greatest dispatch is needed, for according to the last letters received from Abyssinia, the King, finding himself surrounded by the rebels, had ordered the Governor of Magdala to cut off the heads of all the captives. It is hoped, however, that the Governor will try to save the captives for the sake of prospective reward.

Last week a friend in the country sent Mr. J. S. Nixon fifteen snake eggs, which were thrown in a box under the counter in his store, and forgotten until Saturday, when attention being called to them, Mr. Nixon found the eggs beginning to open and during the day nine copperhead snakes, about six inches in length, came out of the eggs. True to the instincts of nature, as soon as their heads appeared outside the shell, they stuck out their fangs and showed fight.—Chambersburgh Repository.

Here is a story from life in Paris:—"Adele D——, aged 26, was found dead yesterday in her lodging in the Rue Esquirol. Near her lay a life less body of her little boy, aged two years. Abandoned and plunged in profound misery, she had recourse to suicide by charcoal. Near the child lay a paper on which the following words were written: "Poor little friend, come with me out of this world; I will not leave you here to be unhappy as your mother has been."

The Reynolds Monument.

A meeting of the Committee of the First Corps. Army of the Potomac, having charge of the Reynolds Monument, was held at Philadelphia, August 13, 1867. All the members were present. The Treasurer reported $5,910 57 on hand, nearly all of which bears interest. The committee decided to erect a semi-colossal bronze statute of the General, in military uniform, on a site already selected in the Soldiers' National Cemetery at Gettysburg. An additional sum of $2,500 is needed to insure the early completion of the monument. Officers and soldiers of Reynolds' Corps disposed to increase their subscriptions, can do so by addressing Gen. C. S. Wainwright, Treasurer, at Rhinebeck, New York, or any of the other members of the committee, namely, Gen. R. Coulter, Greensburg, Westmoreland County, Pa; Gen. J. W. Hofmann, No. 9 North Eighth street, Philadelphia; Col. Chapman Biddle, No. 131 South Fifth Street, Phila., or Dr. T. H. Bache, No. 233 South Thirteenth Street, Philadelphia.

☞Now that tomatoes are in their greatest abundance, the following recipe for making tomato catsup, communicated by Mrs. Page to the Prairie Farmer, will be found useful:

"Take ripe tomatoes (the small red ones are preferable), wash but not skin them, and thoroughly boil one hour, and then put them through a hair seive, and to one quart of juice add one table-spoonful of cinnamon, one of black-pepper, half of cayenne, half of nutmeg, one of good mustard, two-thirds of a tea-cupful of salt. Boil three hours, and then to one quart of juice add one pint of pure cider vinegar. Boil half an hour longer; bottle hot and seal up. This catsup will keep for years, and not require shaking before using. A porcelain kettle is used.

AN IMPROVEMENT IN LIGHT!
We take pleasure in putting before the public a LAMP for burning fat, lard or tallow, which is superior to any of the kind ever introduced. It differs from all others, as it does not require the fat to be melted before lighting. It heats the fat by a copper pipe, which conducts the heat under the fat and melts it immediately.
Thousands of the lamps have been sold and no complaints have been made. All Lamps warranted to give general satisfaction, or the money refunded.
A rare opportunity is offered to any person or persons that may wish to engage in the business. Huntingdon and Mifflin counties will be sold in townships at reasonable terms to suit purchasers. A sample lamp will be forwarded to any person on receipt of retail price, $1,50, and forwarded at my expense.
Will either sell territory or pay agents by the day or piece. Agents are making from $5 to $15 per day, for they sell very fast. They are what every person needs. All letters will receive prompt attention.

—In motion: The Senatorial and Representative candidates.

—A Young Men's Christian Association has been organized in this place. The society meets every Monday evening. We wish it success.

—Sportsmen and others are hunting up the game in this neighborhood.—The success some of them meet with encourages them to try it over.

—The colored camp-meeting "went up" last Thursday morning. Pretty good order prevailed during its continuance.

—Some scamp entered the beautiful garden of Mr. Artley in West Huntingdon, one night last week and cleaned out all the fruit on a dwarf pear tree.

—If politicians and office-seekers want the use of our columns they can be accommodated upon the same terms as other persons who want to make money. Our advertising rates can be found in another part of our paper.

—Aaron Steward, jeweler, has removed to the stand formerly occupied by David McCabe, dec'd., and Geo. W. Swartz has again occupied the same old stand opposite Brown's hardware store. See advertisements.

—The Hollidaysburg Whig says we publish "a neutral paper of extensive influence." Thank you for the compliment; but let us assure you we are not quite so neutral, but a little more independent; and not quite so "extensive" if people will believe a town cotemporary.

—Elegant premiums are to be awarded at the Fair for the best horsemanship. This was one of the features last year, but we were disappointed in seeing only two contestants. We hope to see a better turn-out of our lady equestrians this year. We believe the trial will come off on the second day at four o'clock.

—Thomas, a son of Mr. Thomas Burchinell, of this place, while out gunning last week, met with a narrow escape. The gun had been carelessly overloaded, and accidentally exploded while the butt was resting upon the ground between Thomas's feet. The stock and six inches of the barrel was exploded into fragments, but fortunately the young man escaped any serious injury. A piece of the barrel struck him on the foot.

—Dr. J. P. Thompson, of Williamsburg, Blair county, has purchased the press and material of the Leader, with the intention of publishing a new temperance paper at that place. We don't think he has chosen the best place in the Commonwealth for starting a paper of that nature, as it is too inconvenient of access, but, nevertheless, we hope he will meet with the best encouragement and the utmost success.

—Close at hand: The Fair; two weeks from to-day. Should the weather be favorable the crowd in town will be immense. The exhibition will be a grand success if everybody interested, (and every citizen of the county should be interested,) brings something for exhibition. And the amusements will be something new, interesting and worth expenses.

—The following is going the rounds of the papers: One of the most annoying and painful of so called "little" troubles is a felon. A genuine remedy is worth circulating. An exchange says that a poultice of onions, applied morning, noon and night, for three or four days, will cure a felon. No matter how bad the case, lancing the finger will be unnecessary if this poultice be used; the remedy is a sure, safe and speedy one.

—The Phila. Press made a grand mistake just in the use of a "V" instead of a "P," in making mention of the Tournament at this place last week. We never read or heard of a Huntingdon in Virginia. The mistake may have originated from the fact that tournaments are customary in the South, but for the credit of Huntingdon, Pa., we hope our city cotemporary will make the matter right.

—We learn that several of our mechanics are getting up work for exhibition at the Fair. This is right, and we hope there will be a good display not only from town and surrounding, but from every part of the county. Wagons, carriages, wheelbarrows, sashes, doors, plows, boots and shoes, clothing, and everything manufactured in the county, should be represented.

—We hope to see a large crowd of spectators to witness the Tournament at the Fair. The one on Friday last can be taken as a criterion, and the pleasure which all experienced in witnessing the first trial will only be heightened by seeing the next one, on a grander scale, at the Fair. The gentlemen who have originated this novel feature in our midst, are deserving of full praise, and the ladies who so generously co-operate in the movement, are also deserving, as they make a most attractive appearance in the ceremonies.

A Grand Tournament.

Friday last will be a day long to be remembered by many of the citizens of Huntingdon. It was one of those days which roll on to break the usual monotony and dullness of our quiet town, and which gives a new impetus to the march of progress and activity, and cuts us loose from old fogyism, already too much licensed and practiced. The event which marked the day in question was a Tournament—one of those Southern institutions which called forth the spirit of her "chivalric sons," and wherein the victor of the sport was crowned by a maiden fair, generous and graceful. The scene re-enacted here at the Cottage Grove was fully as characteristic, brilliant and exciting as any we have read of, and fully as successful. Indeed, it far surpassed our brightest anticipations, and from the beginning of the day's festivities we were attracted and interested with every new feature as it presented itself.

At 9 A. M. the Knights repaired to the Court House, from whence they were to escort Prince John (J. Sewell Stewart) to the field. The line being formed, they were preceded by the Huntingdon Silver Cornet Band through town. Their appearance on the street attracted great attention, and was the cause of general satisfactory remarks. On reaching the Grove, where the tilt was to take place, they approached the throne of Prince John and saluted, after which the laws of the Tournament were proclaimed by the Herald (John M. Bailey.) They then took their position in line at the west end of the Grove and awaited the call of the herald to tilt in turn.

The Knights obtained their positions by lot. At the sound of the trumpet the Knight was to ride to the east end of the field, and at the second call of the trumpet should ride under full speed to a ring suspended across the field, and when he reached the ring he was required to catch it upon the point of his lance with a thrust, and deliver it to the Chief Marshall.

The following are the names of the Knights and the order in which they tilted:

Samuel C. Long—Sir Knight of Huntingdon.
Dr. D. P. Miller—Sir Disinherited Knight.
Porter Wilson—Sir Knight Philip de Malvoison.
J. C. Blair—Sir Knight Duke de Montebello.
Thos. Johnston—Sir Black Knight.
E. H. Miles—Sir Knight Richard Cœur de Leon.
Wm. Burchinell—Sir Knight Earl Percy.
J. D. Fee—Sir Knight Du Bois Guilbert.
Robt. Orbison—Sir Knight Don Quixote.
C. H. Anderson—Sir Knight Count de Bracy

We give below the number of the tilts and the number of times the ring was taken by each:

	1	2	3	4	5
Samuel Long,	0	1	0	0	1	—2
Dr. D. P. Miller,	0	1	1	0	0	—2
Porter Wilson,	0	0	0	0	0	—0
J. C. Blair,	0	1	1	0	1	—3
Thomas Johnston,	0	0	0	1	0	—1
E. H. Miles,	0	0	0	0	1	—1
Wm. Burchinell,	1	0	1	0	0	—2
J. D. Fee,	1	1	0	0	1	—3
Robert Orbison,	0	1	0	0	0	—1
C. H. Anderson,	1	1	0	0	1	—3

At the end of the fifth tilt the contest stood between Anderson, Fee and Blair, who had the highest number.—They each had another tilt when Fee missed and at the next trial Blair missed, thus making Anderson, who took the ring, the victor, and entitled to name the Queen of Love and Beauty.

The contest was then between Long, Miller and Burchinell, to select the maids of honor. In the first tilt Long was the only one who took the ring, and in the next tilt Burchinell missed.

The tilting having thus concluded, the herald made the following announcement:

"Sir Kight Count De Bracy has been declared the Victor of this day's Tournament, and is entitled to select the Queen of Love and Beauty; Sir Knight Duke de Monte Bello has been declared second best; Sir Knight de Bois Guilbert third best; Sir Knight of Huntingdon fourth best, and Sir Disinherited Knight fifth best, and are each entitled to select a maid of honor for attendance upon the Queen."

The victor was then taken in front of the Prince, who delivered a short speech, after which the Victor was taken in front of the stand containing the ladies, where he selected Miss Nannie Blair (Lady Le Valle) as Queen, whereupon due announcement was made to that effect. The 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th best of the Knights then selected each a maid of honor.

The Queen was then crowned and conducted to her throne, after which the victor was conducted thereto, and the chaplet placed upon his brow by her. The victor was then conducted once around the lists, when the Prince announced the close of the Tournament.

Thus ended the Tournament, but after it followed a repast, which was fit for a King and Queen. The day was closed pleasantly, everyone enjoying themselves to the utmost.

We should not omit mentioning another feature of the scene, and that was the ladies' stand, where a corps of fair Ladies awaited the victor's salute. The stand itself was tastefully decorated and the ladies were dressed in gay attire. We were sorry that all could not be made the Queen of Love and Beauty, but no doubt all felt satisfied with the part they took on that interesting occasion. We hope to see many more such, and trust that those who witness the Tournament at the Fair will be as highly pleased as we were on Friday last.

—Showing their good sense: The people. The election is close at hand and there is no political excitement with the people. There never was such a dead calm in politics before. The people don't seem inclined to gratify the politicians this fall. There has not been any political meetings called for either party, in this county, and we hope if meetings are to be held, there will be none in this place during the fair to disturb the interest all should feel in our annual exhibition. Last year the political meeting by both parties almost swamped the Fair. One thing at a time must be the rule if success is desired for our county Fair.

Fires.

The dwelling house of Mrs. Rachel Thompson, widow, of Tell township, was burned to the ground on the night of the 25th ult., with all its contents. The family were absent at the time, and the cause of the fire is unknown. No insurance.

The barn on the farm of Peter Ripple, in Cromwell township, was struck by lightning on Wednesday, the 28th ult., and entirely destroyed, with the crops and utensils therein. Isaac Walls, the tenant, loses his share of the crop and some farming utensils. Mr. Ripple's only loss is his share of the crop, he having sold the farm only three or four days before the fire, to George Quarry, of Union township, for $2500, receiving $200 thereof in hand. No insurance on any of the property.—Mt. Union Times.

Captain Joseph S. Reed.

This gentleman, we are pleased to say, is rapidly recovering from the effects of the serious accident which happened him, at his mills, in Centre county, a few weeks since. In his accident he was singularly lucky. The week previous he fortunately took out a policy of insurance, in the Accidental Insurance Co., for which he draws twenty-five dollars weekly. His numerous friends will be pleased to learn that he will soon be at his post of duty again.—Tyrone Bulletin.

Every person should secure a copy of this work.
